OCTOBER

The fields are harvested and bare,
And Winter whistles through the square.
October dresses in flame and gold
Like a woman afraid of growing old. — Anne Mary Lawler

October, now upon us, is thought by many to be the most beautiful month of the year. October was the eighth month of the year in the ancient Roman calendar, and that is where the Oct comes from in October—meaning eight.

In the United States, October brings the first really cool weather of Fall, produces a majestic panorama in the woods and forests of the nation, and produces great sports events, with the midseason climaxes of the college football year.

It is the month in which Columbus landed in America, on October 12, 1492. The cornerstone of the White House was laid October 13th, 1792. A prize of $500 had been offered for a design for the White House and James Hoban, an architect from Charleston, South Carolina, won the prize.

Of more current interest, October 14th is the birthday of President Eisenhower and the month also contains the birthday anniversaries of several ex-Presidents, among them being John Adams, the second President, whose birthday falls on October 19; Chester Arthur, the 21st President of the United States, who was born October 5th, and Rutherford B. Hayes, 19th President of the United States, who was born on October 4th.

Hallowe'en, which falls on the last day of the month, had its beginning long before the dawn of the Christian Era. Today, Hallowe'en is not a mysterious observance, and has little religious significance.

The custom of wearing robes and masks on Hallowe'en originated in early times when it was thought that witches and ghosts were most likely to wander about on that night. This is part of the mystic atmosphere which surrounded Hallowe'en among the early peoples, including the Druids who thought the lord of death called together the souls of the wicked at Hallowe'en and condemned them to inhabit the bodies of animals.

MR. TRUMAN'S MEMOIRS

Former President Harry Truman, whose memoirs are being published in The New York Times, is setting an example for future Presidents. Mr. Truman is soon to release his memoirs, and it will be his own personal story of his seven and one-half years in the White House.

It is good to get a first-hand report, and opinion, from the man who was the top administrator of the greatest country in the world for almost eight years. Moreover, there will be much in the Truman memoirs of historical interest, that will serve as a guide to those who are charged with the responsibility of helping make government decisions in the future.

In his preface, Mr. Truman points out that many Presidents die in office, others leave old or imbittered, and others refuse to write their memoirs for various reasons. Mr. Truman believes that much is lost if the President who is able does not tell his own story, after leaving office.

PERSONAL INCOME UP IN 1954

The Department of Commerce recently reported that personal income in the United States last year was about two billion dollars more than it was in 1953. This despite the fact that 1954 was a slower year than 1953.

Personal income, nevertheless continued to rise. The total for last year was estimated at $285,368,000,000.

States which showed the greatest increase in personal income totals were Nevada, with a nine per cent gain; Iowa, with an eight per cent increase; and Nebraska and Florida, both with six per cent increases.

States which showed a decrease in personal income totals included West Virginia, South Carolina and Indiana.

Personal income, as itemized by the U. S. Department of Commerce, includes income from wages, salaries, farms, rents, dividends, interest, social security, relief and veterans' pensions and benefit payments. It is expected that the total personal income for 1955 will increase much more than the increase registered in 1953 and 1954.

The slight increase registered between 1953 and 1954 probably reflects nothing more than an increase in population and, therefore, in jobs, and in social security payments, and other benefits. This year's expected increase will be influenced by higher wages, higher business earnings and other normal increases.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Shades of Tom Sawyer!

Hack Willis had just stopped the tractor so's he could cool off at the pump, when a young insurance salesman came up the drive.

Hack was tired of plowing, and needed insurance on his new barn. But he also needed to get that winter rye in fast. The salesman, an eager kid, noticed hesitation. "I come from a farm," he said. "Why don't you look at these booklets—get all the dope—and I'll take that plow a couple of rounds for you."

Young fellow laid off a pretty straight furrow, too. It was almost dark before Hack—sitting in the shade—was able to decide just what kind of policy to get.

From where I sit, to be a good salesman—or a good citizen—it always helps to "put yourself in the other man's place." He may have a different sort of job with different problems ... he may prefer to close a deal over, say, a friendly glass of beer while you might prefer something else. But both of you can co-operate if you make it a "policy" to try.

Around Your Home

By Frances Dell

Bright colors and unusual colors are being used in unexpected places in many modern homes. Shocking pink walls combined with gray and black furnishings was the note of one modern living room and dining room in an exhibit representing the latest in modern decor.

The kitchen in this same house was done in pale rose and lime green. The total effect, to one used to seeing more conservative colors used was a bit overpowering, but not as bad as it sounds.

These new dramatic color schemes can be refreshing and gay. However, remember that, for the most part, they are extreme and to be effective must have the exact complement in furnishings and bric-a-brac. For this reason, the decoration can be quite ex

SELECTS WRONG VICTIM

Koshigaya, Japan.- A masked burglar swinging a sickle walked into the bicycle shop of Mrs. Mita Akiyama and shouted, "I want money." Sakae Akiyama, 21, in the shop, twisted the burgar's hand in a hammer lock. He dropped his sickle and ran off screaming. Miss Akiyama is training for women's pro wrestling.

Health and Beauty

Baldness

Baldness seems to run in families and affects both males and females. Many men are bald, especially those advanced in years. The follicles from which the hair grows become destroyed. In such conditions there is no hope of improvement. Those who do brain work and lead sedentary lives usually become bald earlier than those who exercise vigorously and are more exposed to the open air.

We have all seen people who lost their hair as a result of sickness, especially prolonged fevers such as typhoid, intermittent malaria, etc. It is quite common for the hair to fall out during a severe illness from any cause.

Nervous conditions often produce baldness. The hair has frequently turned snow-white as the result of grief, or from a severe shock. As a rule the color is never restored.

Where the baldness is due to a temporary condition, the hair can sometimes be induced to grow back as the health of the patient improves.

Many conditions of the scalp cause the hair to fall out. Some skin diseases are particularly prone to attack the scalp and cause baldness. X-ray will cause the hair to fall out. If the exposures are not too long continued, the hair gorws again.

Ringworm of the scalp and other parasitic diseases are very hard to cure and cause a patchy form of baldness. This kind of Alopecia (baldness) is very common, especially in Europe.

In order to cure baldness, the cause must be discovered and removed. We do not know the cause of hereditary alopecia, but members of the same family are often afflicted with dandruff. This is easily spread by using the same combs and brushes or even the same towels.

Scrupulous cleanliness is necessary to hair health. Vigorous brushing improves the circulation and brings the blood to the roots, where it flourishes the hair follicles, and makes the hair grow. Consequently, anything that tends to bring the blood to the scalp helps to cure or prevent dandruff.

When the patient is suffering from the result of illness or wasting diseases, he must be built up by food and proper tonics. The scalp should also be treated by vigorous massage, and exposure to air and light rays.

If the hair is dry, a suitable emollient should be well rubbed in each day. Crude oil or yellow vaseline is excellent and brings good results.

If the hair is annoyingly oily, some tonic containing alcohol is excellent for stimulating the scalp and removing some of the oiliness. This treatment helps the nerves that control nutrition, and brings blood to nourish the scalp. It will often induce a new growth of hair.

USED ALL 3 NAMES

Pittsburgh, Pa.- Mr. and Mrs. Chester Tempalski, expectant parents, pondered over names and decided on three they liked—Michael, Matthew or John. They used all three of the names because Mrs. Tempalski gave birth to triplet sons.

PHONE CRY BRINGS HELP

London, England.- While making a telephone call, Charles Potts heard faint cries for help. He called police, who traced the call to the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Harvey, 48, who had lain alone for eight hours with a dislocated shoulder. No one could explain how the telephone wires had become crossed.

WILD RIDE

San Francisco.- Fifty passengers were frightened almost out of their wits when one of San Francisco's picturesque cable cars careened out of control recently, turned over, injuring twenty of them. None of the injuries were serious.

The safer car wins ... and Chevrolet's the winning car

Every checkered flag signals a Chevrolet victory in official 1955 stock car competition—not only against its own field but against many American and foreign high-priced cars, too!

On the stock car tracks, this go-getting Chevrolet is making the high-priced jobs turn green with envy ... and making the other low-priced cars wish they'd stayed home in the garage!

Let's translate this into your kind of driving.

You've got to have faster acceleration to win on the tracks. And that means safer passing on the highways.

You've got to have better springing and suspension to nail you to the turns. Again, safer and happier motoring for you.

You've got to have big brakes that act but fast and smooth ... and easy, accurate steering. More things that make your driving more secure and more enjoyable.

But it's more fun to try these things out than just to talk about them. So come in and let's take a ride.
